Are LUCENT IPL treatments a good match to treat your skin concerns?

Acne

Signs of skin aging

Pigmentation & sun damage

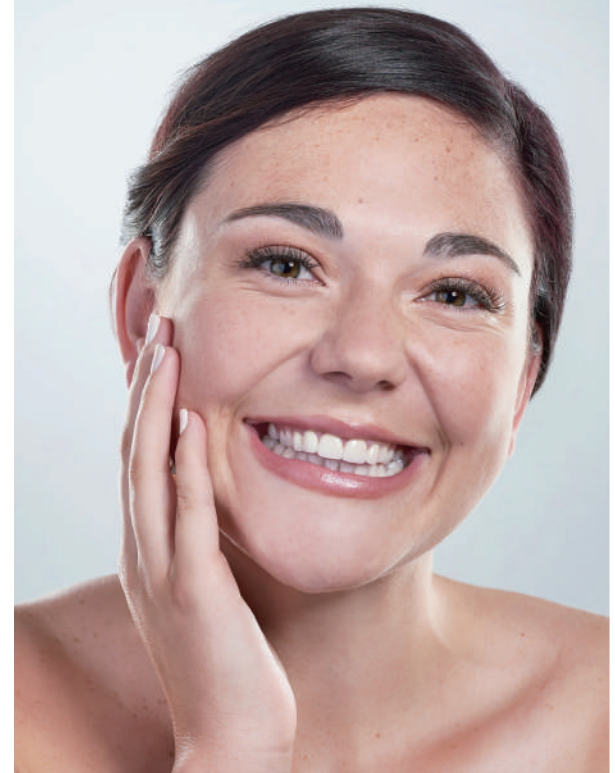

Vascular lesions

- Do you have brown pigment such as age or sun spots, melasma or unwanted freckles?
- Have you noticed the appearance of visible vessels, commonly known as spider veins?
- Do you have redness across your cheeks or around your nose?
- Has your complexion become dull or uneven?
- Do you suffer from acne breakouts and related redness?
- Has your skin started to show signs of aging such as fine lines or wrinkles?
- Are you looking for an overall brightening & evening of your complexion?
- Do you prefer aesthetic treatments with little to no downtime?

If you answered yes to one or more of the above, LUCENT IPL treatments might be a good match! Speak with your skin specialist to see if you're a suitable candidate.

Your skin brightening solution

Confidence to go filter free

We're all born with a luminous even complexion, but as we age a variety of conditions can impact the look of our skin.

Age and sun spots, acne, pigmentation, and broken capillaries can leave us turning to makeup and photo filters for an even, lit-from-within glow.

IPL (intense pulse light) treatments can address skin concerns such as sun damage, acne, pigment & vascular lesions, while at the same time boosting production of skin-firming proteins like collagen and elastin. Results include visible improvement in skin tone & texture, even complexion and a youthful healthy glow.

Everyone
loves a multi-tasker!

— Liz, age 30

What to expect

During IPL treatment, the pulses may cause a snapping sensation & warmth but are typically very well tolerated. Following your treatment, brown spots will darken and skin may appear red for 3-24 hours. Your improved complexion should be visible 1-3 weeks post treatment. Best results typically require a series of 3 to 5 appointments, spaced 1 month apart.
